LIBRARY NEWSLETTER

OCTOBER 2018

A NEW LOOK AND A NEW NAME
For the first time since the Law Library began publishing a newsletter for the faculty in 2013, the Newsletter has been redesigned and renamed. This redesign incorporates the new University Identity Standards. The new name, Library rather than Faculty Newsletter, more accurately reflects the content of the publication. Past copies of the Newsletter are available on our Faculty Services Library Guide.

CHANGES TO WEST ACADEMIC STUDY AIDS
For the past two years, the Law Library has subscribed to West Academic Study Aids online. During this time the product has become very popular with students and has served as a useful supplement to class and exam preparation. Recently, West Academic announced a few changes to the product, which will hopefully be well received by students and faculty alike. Included in these changes is the introduction of the famous Hornbook series, which until now had not been available electronically. In addition, a Bridge to Practice series, a Developing Professional Skills series, and a variety of video courses together with easier accessibility for students will enhance a resource that continues to grow in popularity with our students. Please note that the Law Library also provides our students and faculty with access to Wolters Kluwer Study Aids online. Your library liaison can provide you with information on which study aids are available for the students in your courses.

OFF CAMPUS & WIFI ACCESS TO DATABASES
Some of you may have already noticed a change in how many of the Law Library’s subscription databases are accessed from off campus or through the wifi networks on campus. Beginning this semester, faculty, students and staff now use their University network credentials to access databases such as HeinOnline, ProQuest Congressional, and others when off campus or using a wifi connection on campus. Databases that require individual logins such as Westlaw, Lexis Advance, and Bloomberg Law are not affected by this change.

Nota Bene
Due to popular demand, the Law Library now offers students the option of checking out portable standing desks. It is possible you might start to see your students using them in class.
