The first half of the Spring Semester is the busiest time of the year for the Graded Exams Bank located in the Reference Room of the Library. Faculty can assist the Library staff in making the process of allowing students to view their past exams as smooth as possible by noting the following:

- Please do not announce to the class that an exam is ready for viewing until you know the Library staff has actually received possession of the exam.
- Please make the requirements for viewing an exam consistent with the existing graded exam policy. Inconsistencies in the application of policy tend to arise when exceptions to the policy have been requested.
- If you would like a student to bring the exam to your office for review please explicitly state that they are allowed to do this.
- Please provide us with the exams in exam number order and with any model answers or other helpful materials clearly labeled.

Thank you for helping us make the process better for the students!

BNA & BLOOMBERG LAW

Last fall we alerted the Law School faculty to the news that the highly regarded BNA Law Reports were eventually going to be phased out and replaced by Bloomberg Law news. That process, and the sun-setting of the legacy BNA online platform, took place on December 31st. As of this month the BNA Law Reports are no longer published either in print or online. Along with the demise of the Law Reports, the BNA Resource Centers have now been migrated over to Bloomberg Law’s various Practice Centers. More information for faculty can be found in this FAQ and this brochure.

Nota Bene

Please be sure to alert us if you have a new or forthcoming publication. All scholarly faculty publications will be included in the Bibliography of Faculty Scholarship.
