FOREIGN AND COMPARATIVE LAW RESEARCH
ONLINE: WHERE TO START

Interested in foreign and comparative law research?
Start at the Foreign and Comparative Law Research library guide (libguides.law.cua.edu/fclr/caseslegisl). The guide offers a number of online resources, such as:

- Library of Congress Guide to Law Online
  (loc.gov/law/help/guide/nations.php)
  These guides are prepared by research specialists at the Law Library of Congress for each country of the world and provide a selection of legal, judicial and governmental sources.

- Globalex (nyulawglobal.org/globalex)
  A web publication with links to hundreds of guides on researching international, comparative and foreign law. Country-by-country guides are available for over 150 jurisdictions, and are updated frequently.

- World Legal Information Institute (worldlii.org)
  This site is maintained by several regional legal information institutes, providing access to legislation and court decisions for specific countries, as well as treaties and other international law materials.

- Yale Law School's Country-by-Country Guide
  (library.law.yale.edu/research/guides/all-countries)
  A portal to the best research guides, databases, and primary law sources for all the countries of the world.
